Recently while watching TV, a commercial for Western Union came on in which a Hispanic man explains the importance of Western Union to his family from "back home". He says, "So my cousin the chef, can send his hard earned money to his 'familia' (Spanish for family) back home, because that's why we're here."

I assume this is WOKE rhetoric indicating the illegals, that have invaded OUR country have a right to be here, oh and they are this well meaning. Once doing things 'behind our backs,' the left controlled media is now brashly open about their actions and intentions. This is 'normalizing', as when people referred to the changes in our lives after the pandemic as the 'new normal'. We are led to believe, by the repetition of ads similar to this one, the woke ideology should make this more acceptable. I think in the past this would have been called propaganda.

Some think it's wise not to use faith in discussions because people will weary of it or become offended. However, I think most of us know we are in this predicament precisely because our society put aside the rules of faith in order to get along. I will continue to stick to my convictions, as my faith is not simply a part of my life, but the guiding force of it.

2Chronicles 7:14 tells us:

If my people, who are called by my name, shall humble themselves, pray, seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land.

I pray that God will once again, bless America.

SPOTLIGHT MEMBER – CAROLYN KREFT

Hello. I was born in Brooklyn, New York on a very cold February 15, 1951. My family moved to California when I was about two. There was mom, dad, my older brother Mario, and me.

I met my husband, Brian, in Colorado where I was working as a waitress in a cocktail bar. We have been married for 34 years. A favorite drink I liked to make – a Snakebite. It's made with a shot of Yukon Jack and one-half a shot of Roses Lime. We have a daughter, Jennifer and granddaughter, Brianna. Both live in New England.

I am now retired but held various jobs including as a school bus driver. I also liked working in a nursing home.

We have been in Lake Havasu about 12 years. My dad and his wife moved here in 1978 and opened a sporting goods store, Deluca Marine, on McCulloch Blvd. Brian and I came to help him, as his health was failing, and we stayed. I do like the weather and the people here.

On one beautiful, sunny afternoon, when we were 18 years old, my best friend and I decided to go horseback riding at Spawn Ranch in southern California. We happened upon a very friendly group of people. They wanted us to stay and hang out for a while. We kept saying no, that we had to go because we needed to be home by a certain time. The older man was becoming forcefully insistent. He finally said that we weren't worth it, and seeing our chance to leave, we got out of there quickly! This happened about one week before the Tate murders. We realized we'd been talking with the Charles Manson family!!!

In my spare time I enjoy cooking Italian and Mexican dishes, reading mysteries and cookbooks and traveling throughout Arizona. We love the Grand Canyon.

I have been a proud republican since I first became eligible to vote and enjoy this women's club where I am presently a member at large.

I believe that you can't go wrong if you stay true to your beliefs.

On Meeting night, please stop by the 50/50 table and say hi.

A disgrace for the US Senate

By Victoria White Berger

There is no more room in our country for fools; we are full up. We have been bested by the best of fools — the U.S. Senate, in which today, mostly thanks to Chuck Schumer but really thanks to all the Democrats in the Senate, it has been made clear that no tradition, no constitutional respect, and no national empathy exists anymore on Capitol Hill. The American people are past being outmaneuvered and now stand askance, beaten down by the fools and rogues in D.C. with far too much power on their hands and far too weak to care. These senators all well know the critical jam we're in with Biden's open border — and today, they not only let us know they don't care, but rub our noses in it, not even allowing our fears and our despair their day in court.

The Republicans were outfoxed and shamed by the most cynical “point of order” from Majority Leader Schumer at his bully pulpit. (Senator John Kennedy called Schumer's point of order “specious,” and right he was.) Schumer unilaterally declared that the first article of impeachment of Secretary Mayorkas, brought to the Senate from the House, was “unconstitutional” because it did not delineate impeachable offenses. Total hogwash. Article 2 went by the boards next and in similar fashion. Every Democrat in the Senate upheld Schumer's point of order by their votes, despite repeated attempts from the Republicans in motions to redirect, or postpone, the cataclysm. There would be no discussion, no evidence, no precedent, no postponement, and no trial — only disgrace.

Although we were forewarned of this national failure to redress, again, the Republican senators were still caught “unaware” (which they are getting very good at). We, as a people, were not forearmed for today's grotesquery on the Hill. Awful as it is that the border crisis has overwhelmed our country, it is seriously worse, and never to be forgotten, that the Democrats allowed an unbroken tradition of the acceptable legitimacy of impeachment trials being conducted in the Senate in a fair and “just” manner. This time, the trial didn't even make it to the floor.

Nothing says we're broken in America like the spectacle today on the Senate floor. A “senatorial” mockery of calmness prevailed, but, underneath, the very air was stunned by an anticipated fury from the clear and large majority of the American people, entirely betrayed and summarily dismissed, with no remedy for the border crisis that is killing us.

Even as the mayors of several Democrat cities cry in their soup, regarding what the immigration crisis has brought down on them, and turn to demand far more of and from their citizens than they do of the illegals thronging the streets, the Democrats of both Senate and House refuse to acknowledge the breaking point in America brought on by Biden. We can only assume they cling to their repulsive privilege because that is all they've got. Soon, they will not even have that. They have already lost their dignity.
