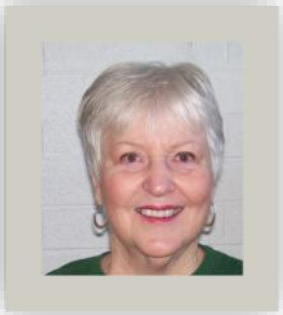
President-Ginny Buckalew



Dear Members and Friends,

It was encouraging to me and your Board to see so many at our March meeting! Keep inviting your friends to join us as we continue to meet and learn about the candidates for this years elections.

One thing that each of us can do is to write letters and make calls to our representatives in Arizona and Washington D.C. Encourage them to fight and not give up! For the first time in forever, Arizona is represented in every top level position of government by Liberal Democrats. This is unacceptable! The mid-term election of 2026 is not that far away. It is imperative that we keep the majority in the House and the Senate and replace the Democrats with Conservative Republicans. To do this we have to get out the vote! Only about 35% of registered Republicans voted in the last mid-term election. That cannot happen again. Please encourage your friends and family to be sure to vote and do it in person at early voting or on election day. We must do our part in keeping the Republican Party strong! If you are not a PC, think about becoming one. Talk to one of the board members and they will be glad to help you. Also, several of the club members are elected members of the Mohave County Republican Party, and they would be able to explain what a PC is.

Our club is doing extremely well. Our membership is growing, and our members are attending the meetings. Our fundraiser, the 26 Club, is selling tickets now and will start drawing winners in October. We are still supporting the American Legion's project of sending boxes to the deployed troops, donating to our local Meals on Wheels program, and as always, giving out scholarships. Red bags are on the tables for your contributions at each meeting.

Thank you for your support as we endeavor to turn our country around and bring back patriotism and the wonderful family values that so many of us grew up with.

If April showers bring May flowers, what happens in Havasu? April Sun brings lake fun?? Hmmm....
While we ponder that don't forget to invite a guest to May's dinner meeting. If you do you will get a token of LBRW's gratitude in the form of a little trinket. And if your guest signs up to be a member, they can pick a trinket too. You don't want to miss out on the fun!

In the meantime, if you have a question or a suggestion please come see me. And if you need to renew or join, PLEASE come see me! Don't forget you can also access our online application by navigating to; www.lbrwc.com/membershipapplication. Have a great month! See you at our April dinner meeting If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to reach out to me. My phone number is (951)858-1862.

Karen VanderJagt
Corresponding Secretary

We've had another quiet month. Hopefully, that means all's well with you. Remember, we care not just about our friends' troubles but also want to share their celebrations. We grow as individuals by sharing both. So, be you happy or sad, God Bless.

Remember to donate to the Meals on Wheels and the American Legion by putting a donation into the red bags on the tables.

Ways and Means

Hello everyone!
It's game time!!! The 26 Club tickets will be available again at the April meeting. We are asking each member to either buy or sell 4 tickets That way we will meet our goal of selling 450. Think of your friends and family members, even if they live out of town; they do not have to be present to win! See page 4 for game details.
Call/text me with any questions 928-486-7756.
Thank you, Lara Goodell.

Spotlight member – Beth Alpine

My name is Beth Alpine. I was born in Burbank, California in 1968. I grew up in Temple City, California. It is a small city in Southern CA. I grew up in a conservative household; My mom was a stay-at-home mom (she has a degree in Psychology and a Masters in Marriage and Family Therapy) and my dad was a banker and a proud member of the Tournament of Roses for 55 years. He was president of the TOR in 2004 and we had the surreal experience of being in the Rose Parade. I always admired my dad for his volunteerism. I graduated high school in 1986 and went to ASU for 2 years and then transferred to CSUN in CA. I met my first husband in 1992. We were married in 1993 and were married for 15 years. We have 2 boys. Ryan is 28, and Smith is 25. In 2007 we were divorced. In 2010 I married my husband Mike, and we will be celebrating our 16th anniversary this December. He added to our family by bringing his 3 boys, James 24, Bryan and Kyle 21 (fraternal twins) I have been with my husband since the boys were 6 and 4. Raising 5 boys has been my greatest accomplishment. They mean the world to me.

After the twins graduated from high school, my husband and I moved to LHC (2022) We absolutely love living here in a conservative city with like minded people.

I am a proud member of P.E.O. here in LHC. Being a part of this women's group has filled me with hope for our city and for me personally. I was a member, with my mom, in California and she got in touch with the sisters here in LHC and then when I moved here, I transferred into the local chapter, DJ.

A few things about me personally: I work full-time from home; I have been working for the same company for 15 years. I love to bake sourdough bread; I am an avid gardener, I love walking with friends and being a mom and wife. My husband works full time for ABF freight. He has been a truck driver for 29 years. He is eager to retire. We attend Calvary Baptist church and look forward to becoming members and making Calvary our church home. We love our life here in Havasu and have many visitors throughout the year.

My friend Tricia Stratis invited me to get involved with LBRW and I am excited to be a new member and about what is to come for this group. We have a lot of work to do to get this great state of Arizona on track. This group seems like the one to do it.

Thank you for welcoming me to the group.

I highly recommend you consider going to this event. It is one of my favorite trips to Phoenix as an LBRW member. In one of the sessions we visited that day, Kirsten Sinema was on the committee and did a lot of scrappy fighting for her interest in the matter. She was extremely rude to the Chairman. I don't remember the topic, but I never forgot her. And wouldn't you know, years later she became a Democrat Arizona Senator.

Council Corner by David Diaz, Vice Mayor

The following is a brief recap of current events/situations involving your City Council.

PRIMARY ELECTION DATE CHANGE: The Arizona State Legislature recently changed the date of the 2026 Primary Election. The original date was August 4, 2026. The NEW date is July 21, 2026. This is very important to remember. The LHC Mayoral and Council race winners are historically chosen during the Primary Election. It is imperative that everyone gets out and votes during the July 21, 2026 Primary. Early voting begins in June. If you need to early vote, please make it a priority. Remember YOUR vote counts!

Crosswalk Analysis. We've heard many requests for more crosswalks in key areas throughout the city. Crosswalks in some areas provide relief for pedestrians and in other areas they cause a false sense of safety, resulting in more accidents and injuries. Our top requests for possible crosswalk locations are at Swanson Avenue and Riviera Boulevard, and on McCulloch Boulevard, in the Wheeler Park area. Staff is initiating two separate analyses to determine if crosswalks are feasible and, if so, with what improvements and at what cost. The information will be very helpful to determine if the City wants to move forward with crosswalk improvements or to share with residents why they are not feasible in these areas.

Water Lab Construction. The construction of our new Dr. Thilak Fernando Water Laboratory started this week. We are doing our best to be as respectful as possible to the residents in the neighborhood while construction is underway. Within the next six months, we will have a water lab we can all be proud to have in our community.

Public Access Easement on the Island. Staff is working on a proposed change in the zoning chapter in our Code, resulting in a requirement for remaining Arizona State Land Property on the Island to obtain a public access easement. We are working with ASLD and asking for 200 feet of easement. It is their property and we need their cooperation, but we are very hopeful we can negotiate an easement requirement, even though it may be less than 200 feet. The preservation of the shoreline is also in the draft General Plan.

2nd Bridge: We will receive the 60% bridge design for our review the second week of March. We continue to move at full-speed ahead. The 100% design is expected to be complete by the end of June or beginning of July. The Public Works team is actively working with all the state and federal agencies to complete the needed paperwork. These agencies include, State Parks, State Lands, Bureau of Land Management, and the Coast Guard. If we have the cooperation we need from the state agencies and everything falls into place the way it should, we could have a groundbreaking in September or October, and a new bridge 18 months from that

Here are a few construction project updates happening in our city:

- We had a pre-application meeting this week with the developer of Paradyme Flats to discuss planning and infrastructure. It is a 60-unit Townhouse/RV project located on the corner of Swanson Ave. & Smoketree Blvd. This may require a PD zoning application, if they want to subdivide the property.
- We are expecting a platting and infrastructure submittal for the Paradyme Barn Caves in the next few weeks. This is a 97-unit Garage/Living above project located at 40 Retail Centre Blvd.Zoning is in - A few neighborhood meetings were held regarding a potential planned development rezone for a proposed five-story hotel at 441 Lake Havasu Ave. The request included a height exception to allow 65 feet, exceeding the district's 30-foot height limit. After the meetings and receiving feedback from nearby residents, we were informed that the owner decided to move forward with a three-story hotel design that fits within the existing zoning district standards and will not be pursuing a planned development rezone.

Anderson Power Sports recently pulled an at-risk grading permit for the construction of their new sales facility on Kiowa Boulevard and SR 95, otherwise known as the Kiowa Ponds property.

The LHC City Council is always here to serve the needs of our community. Please feel free to reach out at anytime for information or clarification on any issues/concerns.

David V. Diaz

The Election Fraud Debate: How The Votes Are Really Stollen John F. Di Leo

With the SAVE America Act facing Senate consideration this week, it is perhaps a good time to talk about what election fraud really is.

Most people have a vision in their heads of corrupt city pollworkers, waiting for lulls on election day when there are no witnesses, and sneakily casting ballots on behalf of names on the voting rolls whom they know to have died or moved away, or have never existed at all.

This does still occur. The method is tried and true, and we know it happens, because virtually every cycle, there are a few prosecutions for this crime, somewhere in the country.

But in a country this large – some 340 million people, spread out over 50 states – there are a lot of different ways to vote, so there are bound to be different ways to commit vote fraud.

Before we go on, we should dismiss the claim that there is no statistically significant vote fraud in America. According to federal statistics, there are at least 11 million crimes reported every year – that's an array of homicides, robberies, auto theft, muggings, kidnappings, forgeries, embezzlements, arsons, rapes, assaults, and more. And that's just the number that are reported.

Virtually every activity in America, either commercial or non-commercial, is plagued with crime, often enough that businesses have whole subsets of their organizations devoted to combatting it.

Warehouses have security cameras; stores add anti-theft devices to merchandise, banks lock up currency in safes, and most of the above employ security guards. Shoplifters steal ingredients from grocery stores, purses from dress shops, power tools from hardware stores.

And every level of government employs policemen and sheriffs, prosecutors and judges, courtrooms and prisons, to process the multitude of criminals committing these crimes.

Eleven million reported crimes per year – many of them over a leather jacket, a wallet, a car or truck, or the contents of a convenience store's cash register. And people will risk years of prison over such things.

Now look at government -- just a few examples:

The City of Chicago has a $16.6 billion budget. There are tens of thousands of cities in the U.S., most of them smaller than that, but all of them containing an array of sub-accounts, from road funds to office space rental, to staff and foodservice and maintenance contracts.

The State of Illinois has a $132 billion budget. There are fifty states, many of them smaller than that, but all of them containing such contracting opportunities as fleet leases and building maintenance, pension funds to invest and grants to spread across the states, roads to pave and bridges to rebuild, employees to hire and outside services to contract with.

And the federal government has a $7 trillion budget.

The people who win elections – local, state, and federal, not to mention all the other offices such as school boards, park boards, county boards and more – control that money. They control grants and contracts, hiring and purchasing, and allocations of all kinds, some of them public, most of them so far under the radar that reporters don't even know that the opportunity to study them exists.

So what are people really saying, when they maintain that there's no vote fraud?

They are claiming that a nation in which people commit 11 million crimes a year for far less valuable things would never dream of stealing access to these countless trillions of dollars' worth of government bounty.

It's ludicrous.

If we were such an honest society that there were no shoplifting, no carjackings, no embezzlement or bank robberies, then it might indeed be reasonable to believe that vote fraud was a nonexistent risk.

But if people are willing to find ways to hotwire cars, smash store windows, crack bank safes or even shoot people to steal a hundred in cash, of course they'd be willing to forge a ballot, sign up an assumed name, or run paper through a photocopier to get access to infinitely more cash than any store, bank, or auto lot ever held.

The ways to steal votes in America are as varied as there are states, perhaps as varied as there are cities. As soon as people build in a defense against one method, they come up with another.

There are cities where pollworkers load up the machine with votes before the polls open, or where busloads of patronage workers drive around the city on election day, casting ballots under assumed names, in every polling place they can reach in the hours alotted.

There are cities where pollworkers bribe voters with a bottle of booze or a box lunch, to fill out their ballots under the watchful eye of the precinct captain, or even to let the captain fill them out himself.

There are places where green-card holders or outright illegals are brought to the polls to vote, having been automatically registered by the motor-voter program, often unaware that they aren't actually allowed to vote. And more often, those noncitizens aren't trying to vote at all, but their names on the rolls enable a precinct worker to cast ballots on their behalf, without their knowledge.

There are college towns where students change addresses every year, or even every semester, resulting in dozens of unpurged registrations, per apartment or per dorm, that were once valid, but are no longer, for a current occupant or R.A. or building manager to utilize.

There are nursing homes all over the country, full of senile, comatose, or heavily medicated patients who could never cast an intentional vote themselves, so their nurses or nursing home managers do it for them.

We could go on for days. The list of methods is long, and we've barely scratched the surface.

But again, it's a matter of simple logic: In a nation of 340 million people, with 11 million reported (and who knows how many unreported) crimes per year, with government budgets in the tens of trillions to disperse, it's ludicrous to think that there wouldn't be people willing to cheat to get their hands on a share of those funds.

And in a nation in which so many of the important races, both in the primaries and in the generals, are decided by less than a few percentage points, it's equally ludicrous to claim that this vote fraud doesn't at least occasionally make the difference.

Here's a chilling statistic: between September 2023 and September 2024, at least 66 elections in the U.S. were decided by fewer than ten votes.

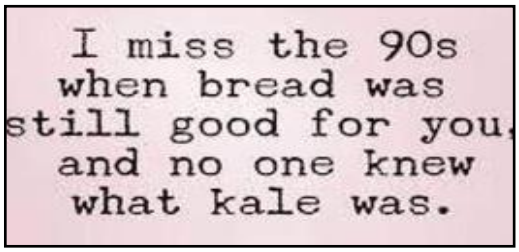
A percent here, a percent there -- one method at a nursing home and another method at a college campus – it doesn't take a lot of vote fraud to make the difference.

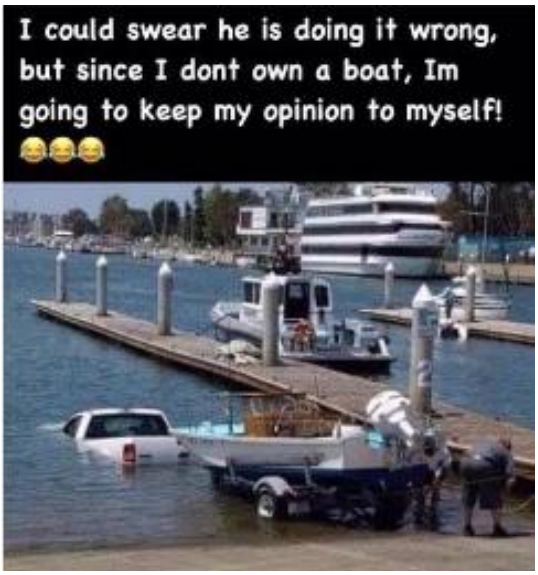
The good government wing of American politics – that's most conservatives, most independents, and even most liberals, cutting across all demographic groups, according to recent polling – supports the SAVE America Act, a requirement that proper identification, proving identity, citizenship, and address, must be presented to exercise the right to vote.

This wouldn't stop every form of vote fraud, but it would stop many. It wouldn't guarantee perfectly clean elections, but at least it would make them a good deal cleaner than they are now.

When the goal is preserving our republic, and ensuring that the people in charge are indeed the people whom the public wants to be in charge, is that really too much to ask?

John F. Di Leo is a Chicagoland-based international transportation manager, trade compliance trainer, consultant and public speaker. Read his book on the surprisingly numerous varieties of vote fraud (The Tales of Little Pavel), his biting political satires on the Biden-Harris years (Evening Soup with Basement Joe, Volumes I, II, and III), and his collection of essays on public policy in the 2020s, Current Events and the Issues of Our Age, all available in eBook or paperback, exclusively on Amazon.





I've gotta sprinkle in some HUMOR!
